

A New Virus is sweeping across Canada overcoming social distancing and leaving officials unable to explain its virulent nature.. It is becoming quickly out of control and is already beyond any hope of being contained.

Officials say that this Virus is unpredictable as to where it is going to show up next.
It targets older people and particularly people who are in self isolation.

And it is invading neighborhoods that previously had shown no sign of its presence. What is particularly puzzling to officials is that you can catch the virus through the internet as well by word of mouth.
There have also been instances where people caught the virus from a sign in the lobby of their apartment building

There are a growing number of carriers of this virus which is no respecter of age. Children have become carriers as have elders and many others. In a number of communities people riding bikes have been found to be carriers.

Fortunately the carriers of this fast moving virus are showing quite identifiable symptoms known as "neighboring". The virus also goes under the name of 'caremongering' The virus itself has been identified as kindness, compassion and concern for one another.

There is a hope that with the fast growth of this seemingly unstoppable virus Canada will not be the same again, creating as this virus does, cities and neighborhoods of countless people stricken with "neighborly love."
