

Anti-Racism Resources

Many people want to stand against racism but do not know how. Part of it is getting educated, challenging your own beliefs, and understanding your privilege. Below are resources for understanding systematic racism and white privilege, articles from people of colour, and a list of organizations that are addressing anti-black racism that you could support right now. As Christians, set aside time this week to explore at least one of these as we answer God's call for justice.

For all those who are the ones speaking out, putting their lives at risk and are feeling angry, tired and grief-stricken that systematic racism is still being supported, we know that posting a list of resources is not a end, but a start. We hope as a faith community to roll out more action in the coming weeks.
